make it worth while to engage in the business.

The baker has only to pay his journeymen and deliver his bread to the consumer, and for this he receives twice the amount received by all the other persons who have handled the flour during its evolution from the farmer to the baker.

There is hardly room for an argument with these facts before one.

That the bakers are fully aware of this there is no doubt. "The Evening World has brought it to the notice of the public too forcibly during its fight for cheaper bread. As things look now, at the next meeting of the Wholesale Bakers' Association it will be decided to reduce the price one cent per loaf.

This information is given to "The Evening World" by a member of the Association who has from the first favored the knocking off of the superfluous cent.

the stock clerk was never suspected. Yesterday afternoon Wolf was seen to lower a box down the hatchway to his cousin. Both were arrested and they confessed that they had disposed of the property they had stolen to Mrs. Bromsman, who keeps a notion store, and to Meyer Leventag, a peddler.

Some of the stolen property was found in Mrs. Bromsman's store. The peddler said he had sold what he had purchased of the boys. The two boys were held for trial in Tombs Court this morning.

HAMMERSLOUGH BROS.,

Our advertising man evidently doesn't understand his business-because, by actual count, hardly one customer in ten is influenced to come here by our newspaper ads. Most of our customers are either people who have bought of us before, or who come here by their friends' advice.

In other words, it isn't what we say, but the values we give that brings the public to us. The secret of the big business we are doing lies wholly in the merit of our clothes and our remarkably low prices.
